

FOUR QUESTIONS TO FACE TRUSTEES

Township Officials Called To Special Session Friday Night To Discuss School Problems

NEW PROPOSALS TO COME UP

Question Of Home Economics And Agricultural Department Supervision In County One

Four important things pertaining to the school work in Rush county, will call the trustees of the twelve townships into conference here Friday night at 7 o'clock in the court house, according to B. D. Farthing, county school superintendent, who has issued the call.

The special meeting will include the election of the county attendance officer, a discussion on a supervisor for the home economics department of the schools, a discussion on the selection of a supervisor of agriculture for the schools and the subject of continuing the County Red Cross nurse.

The plan to be advanced for the home economics supervisor is to hire one person to be the head of the work in the county, and who will have charge of the six or seven teachers in the schools, reducing the cost in some townships, and placing all of the schools of the county on the same basis.

The law also sets out, that the duties of the county agricultural agent may be pressed into service as head of the agriculture department of the schools, giving him active jurisdiction over the agriculture teachers that may be hired.

This policy has never been pursued here, according to Mr. Farthing and the trustees will talk over the plan of having D. D. Ball, the county agent, take charge of all of the teachers who are affiliated with the schools on the agricultural program. The Red Cross nurse, whose time is spent almost wholly in the schools of the county, may not be returned next fall because of the shortage of funds from the Red Cross treasury. The plan may be worked out whereby funds from the townships may

STRICT ENFORCEMENT IS NOW EXPECTED

Declaration Expected From Treasurer Department Following Cabinet Agreement

TWO POSSIBLE EXCEPTIONS

By WILLIAM J. LOSH
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 2.—A declaration for rigid enforcement of the Supreme Court liquor decision in American territorial waters was awaited from the treasury department today as Secretary Mellon, Assistant Secretary Moss and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair met to put finishing touches on a program of policy ordered drafted by the cabinet yesterday.

June 15 was tentatively decided on today as the deadline for ships bringing liquor and "sea stores" across the three mile limit into American territorial waters. At a conference this date was agreed on by Assistant Secretary of Treasury Moss and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair. They submitted it to Secretary of Treasury Mellon for his approval.

Such a decision was forecast in a statement by Attorney General Daugherty, who said that within 30 days the government would be vigorously enforcing the law as constructed by the Supreme Court. Every agency at his command, Daugherty said, would be used in enforcing the law without partiality or discrimination.

Two possible exemption to bone dry enforcement were however, considered possible. They were:

1—Liquor consigned for Washington diplomats, which the state department has announced is unaffected by the Supreme Court decision.

2—Stores of medicinal liquor on foreign ships required by the laws from the country under whose flag a vessel sails.

The Rev. R. O. Pearson of Waldron, president of the Epworth League of the Connersville district, presided at the afternoon meeting and will preside at tonight's meeting.

PREPARES FOR OILING STREETS

City Council Awards Contract For Oil Which Will Be Applied This Spring

TO SPEND $30,000 AT PLANT

Plans For Remodeling Of Building To Accommodate Coal Unloading Machinery Approved

The contract for street oil was allowed Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the city council, when J. S. Tobitt, Wyoming, O., was the successful and low bid, at 6 cents a gallon, on a quantity of 30,000 gallons, more or less. Three other firms submitted bids.

The routine of business was pursued, and Will McQuire, architect, submitted blue prints and plans for the reconstruction of the plant and west end of the water and light plant, preparatory to having the coal unloading machinery installed.

The council passed on one of the plans, which calls for an enlargement of the building, with a view in mind for future development at the plant, as more machinery will have to be installed in the course of a few months, in order to meet the every day requirements. The proposed remodeling will cost $22,000 not including $8,000, additional for the coal unloader. The city plant is able financially to proceed with the work, without borrowing funds. Frank Nicholson, formerly a patrolman, has been appointed sanitary officer, and will work under the supervision of Dr. J. M. Lee, city health officer, during a few weeks.

BURNING TRASH IS BLAMED FOR BLAZE

Frame Shed Used As Chicken House And For Storage Is Burned At Loss Of $100

PROPERTY OF JOHN HARDWICK

A frame building, used as a coal shed, chicken house and storage for furniture, located at the rear of John Hardwick's home, 527 West Fifth street, was practically destroyed by fire early this morning, about one o'clock, and the loss was estimated at $100.

A smoldering trash pile near the place was thought to have been responsible for the blaze, the firemen stated. The place was enveloped in flames when discovered by a train crew on the C. I. & W. railroad, and they sounded the whistle on their locomotive continuously and attracted attention. The fire department was summoned over the telephone.

The place contained much furniture that was in storage, as well as wood and coal. The chickens escaped. The firemen used two chemical lines, exhausting 90 gallons, and a small amount of water was thrown as nearby dwellings were endangered for a time. The building was practically a total loss, and it was not known whether or not insurance was carried by Mr. Hardwick, owner of the property.

CANTATA ENJOYED BY LARGE CROWD

"Ruth, The Moabitess" Given by Richmond Organization Receives Warm Praise

Principals Display Well-Trained Voices And Scenery Also Proves Attractive Feature

"Ruth, the Moabitess" the cantata presented by the Young Men's Institute and St. Agnes Society of Richmond, Ind., at the Graham Annex auditorium Tuesday evening, was witnessed by a large audience, who highly praised the production.

The time of the play was in the days of one of the judges, when there came a famine in Bethlehem. Elimelech, his wife Naomi and his sons, Mahlon and Chelion, went to sojourn in the land of Moab. Elimelech died and after ten years, Mahlon and Chelion died, leaving the women alone.

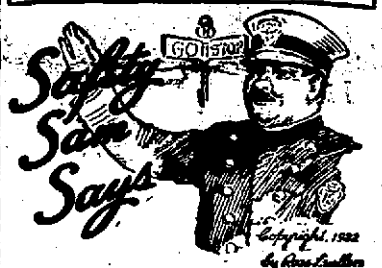

The first act was the time of the famine in Bethlehem, of Judah. The Israelitish maidens are pleading Jehovah for bread. The messenger, Agnes Sauer, brings news from a distant land where there is plenty. She urges the maidens to cry to the Lord to deliver them from hunger and death.

A Jewish maiden, Agnes Kuster, bids them place their steadfast trust in God, for as He fed Elijah from the mouth of the raven so will He help them in their present trouble.

The scene of the second act was in the land of Moab where Naomi, Ruth and Orpha are bemoaning their affliction. Naomi, Kathleen Hayes, decides to return to Bethlehem, with both her daughters-in-law. On the way to the land of Judah she says to them: "God, return each to thy mother's house. The Lord dealt kindly with you as ye have dealt with the dead and with me." Orpha, Jenn Hadley, is persuaded to return, but Ruth, Clara Cutter, remains with her mother-in-law, setting aside all entreaties with the words: "Whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

The two scenes of the third act take place in Bethlehem. The curtain rises when the maidens are praising Jehovah for His mercy and love. The coming of Naomi is reported by the messenger. The women

BOY KILLED IN A CLASS SCRAP

Chicago Police Chief And Physicians Reach This Conclusion In Case Of Leighton Mount

BODY COVERED WITH LIME

Chemical Used To Prevent Early Discovery, It Is Asserted—Class Rivalry Under Ban

Chicago, May 2.—Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, was killed during inter-class hazing and the body placed in lime in a Lake Michigan pier, Police Chief Charles W. Leggett and physicians declared today.

Mount disappeared after a "class fight" among university students in 1921. The skeleton was found by a small boy playing about the pier Monday night.

Doctors George Tyson and Joseph Springer, the latter a corner's physician, declared examinations shows that a chemical was placed over the body before it was hidden, to prevent an early discovery.

All class rivalry contests were banned at the University today, as a sweeping probe into young Mount's death got under way today. Leggett, Evanston chief of police, announced that every student who participated in the sophomore-freshman "rush" of 1921 will be summoned for questioning.

Legg believes that Mount was accidentally drowned by rival classmates who ducked freshmen in the lake and that his tormentors, fearing the consequences, secreted the body and probably visited the hiding place several times afterwards to apply fresh treatments of lime.

Finding of the body created a

JUNIOR CHORUS OF 60 VOICES TO SING

Will be Feature of Grade School Concert at Graham Annex Auditorium Friday, May 11

TICKETS ARE BEING SOLD

Demonstration of Sight Reading of Music by First and Second Grades Also on Program

The grade school concert to be given at the Graham Annex auditorium Friday evening, May 11, will include not only pupils of the first six grades of the Rushville public schools, but also the junior high school chorus of sixty voices and the junior orchestra, both of which organizations have been practicing diligently under the direction of Miss Sarah I. McConnell, music supervisor, in preparation for the concert.

Tickets for the concert, which will be 25 cents, were placed in the hands of fifth and sixth grade pupils today and only these pupils will sell them. Backers and sponsors of the various home talent entertainments to be given here during May are urging that one not be confused with others because none of them wants to suffer any loss of patronage, and Miss McConnell made the same request today.

A feature of the school concert will be a demonstration of music reading as it is done in the first and second grades of the city schools, to show how children are first taught music.

"The theory of older educators," asserted Miss McConnell today, "is that music reading should not be taught before the third grade, but the newer process is to start work in the first grade after the children have learned a goodly number of example songs as a music game."

"The idea is to lead the child on its one plane. After teaching them the songs, syllables used as symbols for sight reading are taught to the children as the second stanza to each song."

"Children recognize the number of beats to different kind of notes through pictures of these characters which are placed on the blackboard. Then books are placed in the hands of the children and they recognize these same music signs they have been seeing on the board. This work is not started until the second semester of the first grade. After they

CAST FOR CHARITY SHOW ANNOUNCED

"The Charm School" Will be Presented at The Princess Theatre Under Tri Kappas' Auspices

MONDAY, TUESDAY, MAY 28-29

Proceeds Will be Divided Between Riley Hospital Fund and County Child Welfare Body

The cast was announced today for "The Charm School" which will be given at the Princess theatre Monday and Tuesday evening's, May 27 and 28, under the auspices of the Tri Kappa sorority for the benefit of the Riley Memorial hospital fund and the Rush County Child Welfare association.

The proceeds one night will be devoted to the hospital fund and on the other night to the child welfare association, which has included in its program for the summer a day nursery in Rushville.

The play will be directed by Denning P. Havens, who recently had great success with the direction of "The Charm School" at Wabash, Ind. The only difference between Mr. Havens' work here and at Wabash is that he is giving his services absolutely free of charge because the proceeds go to charitable purposes, whereas at Wabash he was paid for directing the production.

The Rushville chapter of the sorority is working with the other seventy-seven chapters in the state to raise enough money to pay for an eleven-bed ward in the hospital. A memorial tablet bearing the names of the chapters in the state, probably will be placed in the ward following the completion of the hospital. Whatever money the Rushville chapter gives will be counted on the Rush county quota in the hospital campaign.

The cast follows:

Austin Bevans, Russell Titsworth, an automobile salesman with ideas, which.

David Mackenzie, Eugene Kelly, a law student, considers unpractical, though.

George Boyd, Albert Cotton, an expert accountant, is willing to co-operate, and also.

Jim Simpkins, Burton Smith and Tim Simpkins, Paul Spivey, who toil not and have never seriously considered snoring.

Bob Hill, Roger Kennedy.

Senator Watson Not Expected in Rushville Until He Attends Cannon's Birthday Celebration

REACHES INDIANA TUESDAY

To Make Rushville Headquarters This Summer, But Will Tour Most of The State in Machine

Senator James F. Watson who, together with Mrs. Watson, will make his home in Rushville this summer, and who returned to Indiana Tuesday from Washington, is not expected in Rushville for several days, probably not until the middle of the month, by his local friends.

Senator Watson spoke at a district republican rally at Bloomington yesterday and today went to Vincennes. He is expected to go to Winchester for a brief visit with his mother, before going to Danville, Ill., for Uncle Joe Cannon's birthday celebration, next Monday.

It will be some time next week, or possibly the next, before he gets to Rushville. Senator and Mrs. Watson plan to make Rushville their headquarters for the summer but have not yet made arrangements for any place here to stay.

Senator Watson will not be in Rushville much, however, because he plans to visit in all parts of Indiana during the congressional vacation, touring most of the time in an automobile.

Concerning Senator Watson's first appearance in Indiana, a dispatch from Bloomington today says:

"All I can say about the matter," Senator Watson declared, "is the question of the chairmanship will be settled without any friction. I have discussed the matter with the Governor and I am sure that it will turn out most satisfactorily."

The crowd attending the Bloomington rally gave the affair the appearance of the initial meeting in a campaign year. While the Governor centered his address on state affairs, the senator delved into national questions. His declarations on the world court and the League of Nations was the part of the senator's address which was listened to with the greatest attention.

"The people in 1920 decided by a vote of 7,000,000 that the United States keep out of the League of Nations and that this nation keep out of foreign involvements," he declared.

There was a burst of applause from the audience which filled the court room when Senator Watson asserted that he still has four years

A still further agitation is on foot whereby the offices of the county attendance officer and the visiting school nurse may be consolidated, and the nurse take the place of the officer, devoting her time to both places, and drawing the salary of the attendance officer.

All of these things will no doubt cause much discussion among twelve trustees, and all four problems are regarded as important ones in the future of the county schools.

PROSPERITY IS SWEEPING NATION

Public Purchasing Power Increased By Universal Employment, Reserve Bank Review Says

SHOP WORKERS IN DEMAND

Order Book Of Manufacturing And Wholesale Concerns, Are Filled For Future Orders

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2.—The widespread effects of the prosperity that has developed throughout the country is emphasized by the monthly review of general business condition, received today by banks here from officials of the Federal Reserve Bank district that includes Indiana.

"The purchasing power of the public has been materially augmented by the universal employment of labor of all description," says the Federal Reserve review. "Government, state, and private labor agency reports indicate an almost total absence of unemployment other than that of a voluntary character. The demand for clerical and shop workers has undergone distinct improvement during the last sixty days, and there continues a shortage of skilled and common labor in many of the principal industries.

"The trend of wages both in the city and the country, is still toward higher levels and several specific advances were reported in important groups.

"While the general trend of commodity prices continues upward, changes during the period under review were less marked than earlier in the year, and in a number of lines a more stable basis is in evidence.

"Order books of manufacturers and wholesalers, are much better filled with future business now than at the corresponding period a year ago. A considerable amount of re-ordering in a small lots is taking place, indicating that retail merchants have underestimated their requirements than overbought.

LAUREL MAN GOES ON TRIAL

Lee Hampton, Arrested By Horse Thief Detectives, Tried At Brookville

Lee Hampton of Laurel, who was arrested by members of the Rush County Horse Thief Detective Association several days ago, was to go on trial today on the charge of unlawful possession of a still and the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor, in the Franklin county circuit court at Brookville.

Harry French, who was arrested at the same time, pleaded guilty to the same offenses with which Hampton is charged and was sentenced to serve five years at the state reformatory by Judge Tague of the Franklin court. French has never begun his term, having been detained in jail at Brookville as a witness for the state in the French case.

have accomplished this much, by the time they reach the second grade, they are able to do sight reading of the simpler style.

"This process of teaching, while not a correlation of other school work, yet it is comparable to the way other subjects are taught and reveals the music ability which the child has."

The remainder of the program will be groups of songs, with two-part work by the sixth grades and the junior high school chorus. The junior orchestra will open the program with two selections, at which time will be presented many violin students who have had all of their work in class lessons. In this, Miss McConnell is only carrying out what was started last year in organizing classes to build up a large junior orchestra.

Envoy Stewart who has charge of the work at Shelbyville will be here and a street service will be held at seven o'clock, followed by services at the hall beginning at 7:45 o'clock. to serve in the Senate and that during that time he will never cast a vote in favor of entering into any sort of international arrangements like the League of Nations.

"I do not speak altogether of the world court in this connection," Senator Watson said. "The Republican party has always favored some sort of arrangement of this kind. We all know that the nations of the earth have been hoping for world peace and international understanding."

Senator Watson indicated that about all that is necessary in this connection is to revive the machinery of The Hague.

He pointed out that there was nothing said about the world court plan in the 1920 campaign because the League of Nations was the supreme issue that year.

"President Harding's proposal will not cause any breach in the ranks of the Republican party," Senator Watson declared in reference to the President's New York address, in which he advocated the world court.

"I do not know just how we will do it," Senator Watson asserted, "but I do know when the matter is debated in the Senate steps will be taken for placing the proper safeguards around the world court. We will never permit this nation to be under any supergovernment."

"In my conferences with the President and Secretary of State Hughes I have been assured that after the world court is organized it will have no relations whatever with the League of Nations. Of course there is one thing about the proposal and that is in the selection of the judges. In their selection Great Britain will have six votes to one of the United States. Now I have nothing against Great Britain but I have a great deal of love for my own country."

"If the Democrats are sitting around laughing about a possible split in the Republican party over this question they have another thing coming. We believe in discussion and the airing of our views. It is one thing certain that the Democratic party will not be able to settle these questions. I am glad that the President presented this question

GOD WILL PROVIDE.—Take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or What shall we drink? or Wherewithal shall we be clothed? But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6: 31, 33.

Cross Roads Accidents

The state highway commission is directing its efforts to remove the causes of many automobile accidents at country cross roads, which are generally due to high growing crops obscuring the view. To the end that the fatalities may be reduced, representatives of the commission are urging farmers, wherever possible, to plant low growing crops and thus help in the campaign to save lives.

The open road of the country invites high speed, A. H. Hinkle, superintendent of maintenance points out, and frequently a road intersection is not noticed until the driver of the fast moving car is too close to slow down. The result is a car approaching on the intersecting road is traveling fast, a serious accident and often at a casualty.

In the opinion of John D. Williams, director of the commission, there is one positive way reducing this menace to traffic and that is planting low growing crops in the corner of fields adjacent to state roads. Plant these crops for 100 feet each way of the road, is the suggestion.

Highway officials say that many farmers, cognizant of this safety measure and wishing to cooperate to save human life, are planting in field corners such crops as tomatoes, potatoes, beans, cucumbers, and other low growing crops. Even pop corn or sweet corn can be planted in such places with profit to the grower and greatly lessening the danger of obstructing sight distances.

Mr. Williams' bulletin, which has gone forth to all the highway field men with a request they personally take the matter up with land owners and renters, in part says:

"Every farmer should give this question consideration in planting his spring crops, for a little thought part, he may be able to save a life this coming summer, or at least prevent great loss account of wrecked automobiles. It is hardly enough for the farmer to say that it makes no difference whether machines are wrecked or not, for his own machine with his family in it may meet that fate some day. It must be remembered that slow moving automobile is frequently struck by the fast moving one, and the innocent party is as often injured as the one who is exceeding the speed limit.

"Many a person has gone through life with shattered nerves or has received permanent bodily injury, barely escaping death, at road intersections due to high speed, recklessness and because crops obstructed sight distances.

Freight by Airplane

Transporting freight by aeroplane and in planes not designed as freight carriers, has been successfully demonstrated by the army air service, the War Department announces. The transportation, moreover, was considerably cheaper than would have been the cost by railroad, and it was much quicker.

Aeroplane equipment and the effects of officers were transported in two instances where posts were shifted, says the report. The experiments demonstrate the practical utility of the aeroplane as a freight carrier and are taken as the forerunner of specially constructed craft for freight hauling in the army service. It is a big step forward in converting the aeroplane to the most prosaic of uses, and is a valuable contribution to the adaptation of the plane to wider and more general use.

The mysterious shooting of Amos Winship, after five days of careful investigation by the officials who were hampered by many foolish ideas advanced by that class of ever-willing advice-giving "Sherlock Holmes" who follow other occupations has apparently been solved to the officials' satisfaction. Further investigation of the shooting will be dropped and while no definite information will be given out by the officials, still it is understood by the knowing ones that enough has been divulged by the wounded man to warrant the local officers in dropping the case.

period of a general sanitary clean-up within the city. He will be given police powers by the mayor.

Henry Miller was granted permission to move a dwelling house from East 7th to East 9th street, directly north two blocks, to a place near George and Ninth streets.

Will Bainbridge petitioned the council for water service at his residence in East Third street, and the city will extend a small main from Julian street to his property line, a distance of about 120 feet.

The clerk was ordered to instruct the I. & C. Traction company to maintain their right-of-way through the city, by placing street material, and taking off the rough spots by putting on gravel.

Complaints were registered with the council of persons hauling ashes in wagons and trucks that were leaky, and that the contents were thrown along the streets. The police were ordered to watch trucks, and a warning was issued to truckers to have tight beds on their outfits, for hauling ashes and dirt.

The successful bidder on the oil contract was the same who had the contract last year, and the price this year is a trifle higher at 6 cents, as last year it was bought for 5.96 cents a gallon.

The Shelbyville Street Sprinkling Association submitted a bid last night to place the oil on the streets with their modern motor apparatus at 4 cents a square yard, or about $29 for a city block. The council, however, decided that available funds would not meet this expense, and that they would purchase the oil, and use the equipment here to put on the oil in years past.

The Red Fox Petroleum Company, represented locally by Rex Innis, submitted a bid of 6 1-8 cents a gallon, and the other bid was submitted by Charley Winburn, Kokomo, Ind., for 6.9 cents and 6.33 cents a gallon for certain grades.

The work of oiling the streets will begin in a few weeks, as soon as the streets can be prepared, and the weather becomes settled. It is expected that less oil will be required this year than last, and the appropriation was reduced last fall when the council decided to do with less oil this spring.

CANTATA ENJOYED
BY LARGE CROWD

say: "This is Noemi," but she says, "Call me not Noemi, but Mara." Noemi's husband, Elimelech had a kinsman named Boaz, who was very rich, and Ruth says to her mother-in-law, "If thou wilt, I will go into the field, and glean the ears of corn that escape the hands of the reapers." Noemi answering says, "Go, my daughter", and Ruth goes to glean in the fields.

The harvest scene in the last part of the third act was beautiful. The curtain rises on the reapers, binders and gleaners at work in the field when Boaz, William Kahle, enters. He asks, "Whose damsel is this?" Learning Ruth is the Moabite woman who has returned with Noemi he bids her: "Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here by my maidens. And when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels and drink." Ruth gleans till evening, when wearied, she lies down to rest. Boaz sings the slumber song.

At the close of this scene, a beautiful tableau was given of Ruth sleeping in the harvest field and the angels standing over her. The angels were Mary Westendorf, Loretta Maurer, and Ruth Metz.

The closing scene of this act opened with Noemi's prayer. Boaz finds Ruth gleaming. He greets her with the words: "Thine inheritance is redeemed, and be thou to me my lasting joy and crown." Ruth responds with the hymn of thanksgiving, "My soul doth magnify the Lord." The Israelite Maidens join in the chorus of "Praise Ye the Lord."

The closing act was the wedding banquet, celebrating the marriage of Boaz and Ruth. The wedding guests are seated at a long banquet table and all are happy, singing the song of mirth. Two maidens, Esther DeBus, and Esther Brokamp, with a flute and harp, entertained the guests with a dance. Also little Miss Statia Hayes, gave a costume dance for the entertainment of the guests. She soon won the audience and was applauded for an encore. The cantata closed with the grand finale, "Praise Ye The Lord."

All the choruses were splendid in their selections and showed that they had received much training. Miss Clara Cutler, who played the part of Ruth, had a wonderful contralto voice, and in her solo parts, she was highly applauded. Miss Jean Hadley, taking the part of Orpha, added much to the success of the production, with her clear high soprano voice. In the closing act she sang "The Swallow Song", which was beautiful, and the audience was loud in their applause. She responded with an encore. Kathleen Hayes, Noemi, had a sweet soprano voice and took a prominent part in the special selections. Boaz, with his deep melodious bass voice, played his part remarkably well.

The accompanist for the cantata was Rosella Toschlog, and the music between acts was furnished by St. Andrew's orchestra, of Richmond. The cantata, was directed by Sister Cecilia, formerly Miss Sadie Cauley of this city, and was given for the benefit of the St. Mary's Catholic school fund.

Clean Up Paint Up

LET'S LOOK UP!!

You may clean up a tramp and put his rags back on him and he will still hang his head. But give him new clothes and he will look up with pride and self-respect.

You have publicly committed him to cleanliness and respectability.

This philosophy will apply to many owners of faded and run-down homes. When they clean up the yard, and paint up the house, they look up with pride and satisfaction.

And The Neighbors Follow Their Example

It's as poor reasoning to clean up, then neglect the painting and peeping, as it is to wear a clean shave and a dirty collar. There's nothing in either to inspire self-respect or the respect of others.

Consult us about your decorative problems right now during this general "CLEAN-UP" week. Let's work together and when the clean-up and paint-up is finished, this town will be something to crow about.

Owner Draws Fans

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, May 2—Baseball club owners, by tradition and practice, are supposed to be only club owners. It is their function to talk gate receipts all summer and wag their tongues all winter in political battles designed to keep the game in print. It is seldom that the personality of a magnate injects itself so into the team that is an asset and a drawing card. The personality of Charley Comiskey was always an asset for the Chicago White Sox until the "Old Roman" became disgusted with star chamber politics and practically retired. Star players are the biggest factors, of course, in drawing crowds into the parks. Millions have been packed into stands to see Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, George Sisler, Rogers Hornsby and Christy Mathewson, and the same millions would have paid in their money even if it did not go into the hands of an intensely unpopular club owner. Babe Ruth, beyond all doubt, is the biggest asset the New York Yanks possess and, for that matter, he is baseball's greatest drawing card. The ability of the great Swat King to draw in customers on the road has meant almost as much prosperity to the other American League clubs as it has to the Yanks, considering the difference in the size of the parks. The personality of the Yankee team is not confined, however, to Ruth. The popularity of Colonel T. L. Huston and Jacob Ruppert, the two club owners, has been no small factor in raising the Yanks up to the biggest thing in baseball. In the comment that was aroused over the dedication of the new Yankee stadium, the finest sport structure in the world, when 74,200 fans saw the game and 15,000 were turned away, it was remarked on all sides: "Those colonels surely deserve it." No figures are available, but nothing can be recalled to refute the statement that no such support and commendation have been volunteered by the general run of fans to any other club owners. In addition to being citizens and sportsmen of the very highest type, the two colonels are big chance takers and if anything appeals to the New Yorker it is a game gambler, who plays big stakes on a tough bet and gets away with it.

RUSHVILLE TEAM TO OPEN SEASON SUNDAY

Local Baseball Club Under New Management Will Meet Strong Acton Comets Here

SUPPORT OF FANS IS ASKED

The Rushville baseball club, under new management, will open the season here Sunday, meeting the strong Acton Comets in the first game, and the local team will put out a strong line-up for the opener, according to the management.

The line-up for the first few games may be varied until a good working team can be secured. A deal is on to secure Plummer and his catcher, but he will not be here Sunday, and has recommended a pitcher and catcher from Indianapolis.

Besides these players, Ray Michaels and Cooley of Connersville will be here for the pitching staff and may work in the field. Others who will be here are Herman Hemphill, George, Shaw, Conway, Sharp, Pearson and one or two others who will be obtained.

The visiting team comes well recommended, and in the past they have had a good team. Leslie and Schaeffer form their battery. The latter was with the Shelbyville team last season.

Rushville fans are urged to turn out for the opening game and lend the new team their support, as fast teams will be booked if the fans support the aggregation.

The Score Board

Six runs down in the seventh inning, the New York Yanks for the second time pulled a great rally that scored eight runs in the last three innings and they beat the Senators 8-7.

A pass to O'Connell, Snyder's single, a wild throw by High and Baneroff's sacrifice fly scored a run in the last half of the ninth that gave the Giants a 4-3 victory over the Robins.

Cy Williams hit two homers, a double and a single, but they were not enough and the Phils lost to the Braves 12-10.

Singles by Duncan and Bohne, and a wild throw by Heathbott, gave their only run off Dumovich and the Cubs won 3 to 1.

After a single by Heimach and a double by Perkins in the ninth inning, Elmke fanned the side, and the Red Sox won from the Athletics 5-4. Elmke struck out ten.

Carey's homer with Marquave on base helped the Pirates break the winning streak of the Cardinals with a six to two victory.

The fifth homer of the season for Ken Williams in the ninth inning with Tobin on scored two runs, but Levelette stopped the rally, and the White Sox won 5-3.

AMUSEMENTS

Two Days At Princess

One of the most widely heralded of this season's photoplays is announced for today and Thursday at the Princess Theatre. It is "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a Metro-SL picture based on the famous story of New England life which was a phenomenal "best seller" when it appeared a decade or so ago. So great was the popularity of the printed narrative by Charles Felton Pidgin that it was dramatized, and in this form it won more favor. The elaborate photoplay version is even more interesting than the book or the play.

Everybody knows the story of "Quincy Adams Sawyer." Everybody knows and loves its quaint rustic characters. The story of the young lawyer from Boston, Quincy Adams Sawyer; his coming to the small town of Mason's Corner; his experiences in running down a dishonorable scoundrel; his great love affair all this is part of the attractive novel which is now a screen play. The delightful rural characters are fun-provoking to the extreme, and the fresh, clean, humor will appeal to all lovers of better photoplays.

A lavish production has been given this famous story. To enact the roles in the picture, the entire motion picture industry has searched for its best material. As a result, one of the highest-priced assembles of talent is seen, and in the list are players who have been starred in their own right. Among the more important are greater sensation than it would otherwise because of the fact that stories had been circulated that Mount disappeared on his own account.

Chicago police, aiding in the probe searched for a nurse girl who told them when Mount disappeared that she had received a letter from the boy telling her "good-bye."

A report that rumors were circulated two days before the police discovery of the body that "Mount had been found" was also investigated.

An initial score or more of students were quizzed today. Leggett says he especially wants to talk to one young man who claimed to have seen Mount alive some time after the class scrap. Coroner Wolf, Evanson, started an extended inquest upon university officials for a complete list of all freshmen and sophomores in the institution.

Mrs. J. J. Mount, mother of the dead boy, was the tragic figure in the case today. Since the youth's disappearance she has ignored reports that Leighton ran away or took his own life and spent every cent she could afford for private detectives.

"I have always said I would be happier to know Leighton was dead than to have the suffering over the possibility that he might be out wandering friendless, alone, possibly hurt," she said.

"But now that I know, my sorrow is just beginning. If only the university officials had helped the search when Leighton disappeared, by now I would have the dull sorrow that twenty months of obedience to God's will brings.

"For Leighton I was glad. He is happy. He is well. He was prepared morally and mentally to die." Mrs. Mount was spurred in her search by stories authorities credited that Mount had run away from home or committed suicide. As the latter dropped their probe, she demanded she demanded that the name of her boy be cleared.

Cleveland pushed over a run in the first half of the ninth but the Tigers came back with two and won the game 6-5.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

For the first 8 weeks, Conkey's Buttermilk Starting Feed is the proper feed, scientifically, for chicks, but Growing Chicks Must Have a Different Feed. A Favorite With King Tut

A novel and appetizing use for boiled beets is in corn beef hash. Chop cold boiled beets fine and use equal parts of beets and potatoes with the beef and onion or discard the potatoes altogether. Some cooks add chopped green peppers.

Whether the name beet comes from a Celtic word "Beta" meaning red or from the Greek letter "B" it is a vegetable of ancient and honorable usage and always popular either for its cooked foliage for greens or for the root boiled and served with butter or in combination with other dishes. The finest flavor is said to be secured when the beets are baked, the hard outer shell being removed and the tender interior served with a plentiful dressing of butter.

It is not known when the beet was introduced into cultivation but it is known that it was eaten by the Egyptians of ancient times and no doubt was found in the tomb of King Tut embalmed or pickled. Crosby's Egyptian beet is one of the best for very early planting.

Beets have two distinct methods of growth. Some such as the Egyptian grow wholly underground. Others such as Detroit Dark Red have about a third of their root above the surface of the soil. The Early Flat Egyptian also grows above the soil although it is a parent of the Crosby Egyptian which does not.

It will speed the germination of beets to soak the seed, although this is not necessary. Beets should be sown as soon as the ground can be worked. They will always come up too thick because each "seed" is really a fruit cluster and contains several seeds. Therefore they must be thinned early, and the uprooted plant cooked with their tops make delicious "greens." They need a moist seed bed for prompt germination and the soil should be well firmed over them. If it is dry weather at planting time soak the seed. oiaWbl'shawagaint

FISHING IS GOOD IN HOOSIER STATE

Indiana Is Looked Upon As The Playground For Fishermen Who Come Here Each Summer

MANY REASONS ARE ASSIGNED

Rivers, Creeks And Lakes Are Protected And Supported By State Conservation Department

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2.—Pro-life reproduction of fishes in their natural habitat, augmented by common sense fishing laws rigidly enforced through an active and determined warden corps, coupled with the success of four hatcheries annually propagating and planting millions of baby fish, is rapidly making Indiana noted for its fine piscatorial sport and incidentally the state is being looked upon as the playground of the nation, in the opinion of George N. Mannfeld, chief of the fish and game division of the state conservation department.

In a bulletin issued today Mr. Mannfeld points out that Indiana is unusually blessed with a vast water area. There are thirty rivers, sixty large creeks and many hundred lakes. A rough estimate indicates approximately 350,000 acres of water in the state and, if in one continuous body, would represent a lake 100 miles long and nearly 50 miles wide.

Mr. Mannfeld calls attention that one of the most beneficial laws for natural reproduction of fishes, established a closed or protected season at spawning time. Most of the fishes spawn in our waters in the spring or early summer and this is true of the most prized species, the black basses, bluegill, rock bass, crappie, wall-eyes and yellow perch. This law protects the basses and bluegill from April 30 to June 16, being enacted in 1921. In the two years of its enforcement it has been of immense value in assisting to stock public waters, conservation officials assert.

According to the bulletin, the conservation department in 1922 at four hatcheries propagated 1,260,600 young bass which were planted in various public water courses and lakes. With the natural reproduction augmented by reason of the protected season, aquatic life multiplied by the millions and the result today is that Hoosier streams are first class for this form of sport and recreation. That the public is becoming more and more sympathetic with proper protection of fishes during spawning time is evidenced in that 46 persons were arrested for disturbing nests or fishing during the closed season in 1921, and only 30 were arrested for similar offenses in 1922.

In the opinion of Mr. Mannfeld crappie and rock bass should be included in the list of fishes protected during reproduction time, and if they can be added, then Indiana's protective laws for the conservation and augmentation of aquatic life will be pretty near ideal.

APPROXIMATELY 125 IN DUBOIS POULTRY CLUB

Approximately 125 members are lined up in the Poultry Club work in Dubois County, county agent J. L. Morrow reports. The Farm Bureau is furnishing the eggs for the work, allowing each club member three settings or 45 eggs. At first it was planned to let all that wanted in to join, but the number was so great and the expenses would have been so high that a limit of two from each school district had to be set. Most of the townships now have their quota enrolled. It is the hope of the people back of this club movement that the people of Dubois County may have a chance to secure purebred poultry in a quantity large enough to form a small farm flock another year. The club work is an outgrowth of the efforts started by the agricultural extension department of Purdue University in Dubois and surrounding counties last year.

S.S.S. routs Eczema

Here's something about S.S.S. that you'll be glad to hear.

S.S.S. cleans up skin eruptions through the power of cleansing the blood.

Practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema with all its fiery, skin-digging torture and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1926! S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body builders known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs eczema, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down. If I Could Make Boxes—

THERE is always a demand for boxes—flower boxes, packing boxes, crates, etc. If I could make boxes to order, I would get my share of this business.

I'd go right into a home, if necessary, and make boxes on the spot for people who were moving. Or perhaps I'd make a whole set of porch boxes for one house.

But first I would tell people where to get me—my telephone number. This would be very easy with Daily Republican Want Ads, because Rushville people have learned to look to The Daily Republican when they want something done. And they would see my message.

The actual manufacture of a million Buicks has been accomplished by the development of an organization of huge proportions, by the expansion of manufacturing facilities and the creation of manufacturing methods to insure the finest possible workmanship and quality.

The development of a car of sufficient value to attract a million buyers has brought a growth of dealer and service organizations everywhere, to guarantee further the high standard of Buick performance.

SUCCEEDS IN WAR ON BOOTLEGGERS

Governor Pinchot Of Pennsylvania Satisfied With Results Of First Four Months' Efforts

MANY HUNDREDS OF ARRESTS

General Assembly Passed Act Somewhat More Draconic Than Volstead Act And More Powerful

Harrisburg, Pa., May 2.—Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania is satisfied with the progress he is making to dry up his state.

Four months ago, on taking office Pinchot announced he will enforce the prohibition laws so rigidly that bootlegging and general violation of the dry act would be made too hard and too expensive. He has been making it very expensive for the bootleggers, likewise very hard. Many hundreds of arrests have been made, and vast quantities of liquor confiscated, under his regime.

Arrests and confiscations will increase until the violators are driven out of the state or forced to obey the law, Pinchot stated.

If Pennsylvania is not yet quite dry it is at least a great deal dryer than it was.

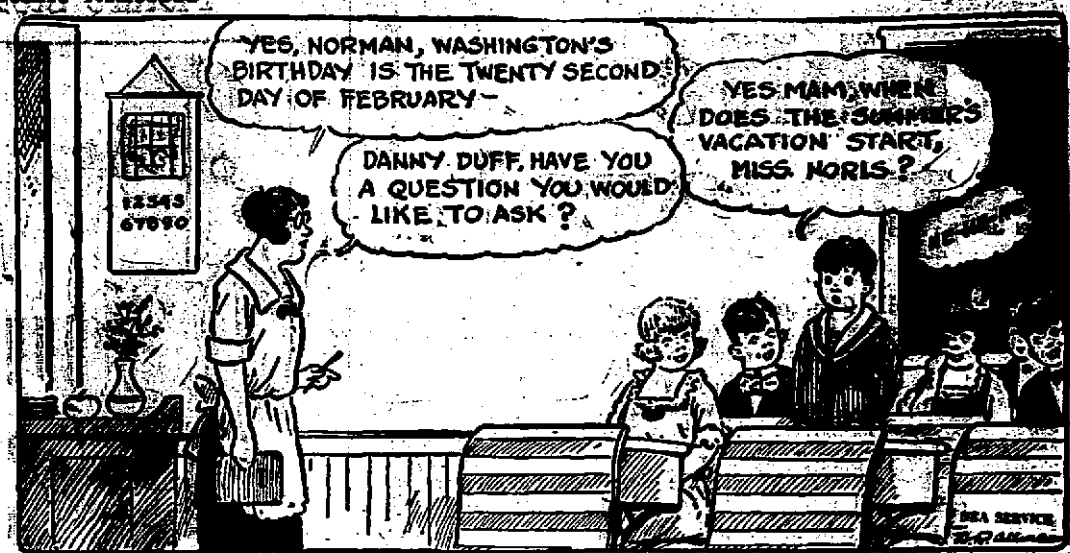

Pinchot's first move was to commandeer the services of the State Police, a semimilitary body of nearly four hundred mounted troopers famous for their discipline and efficiency. As nominal commander of these troopers Governor Pinchot detailed almost every available man to the duty of breaking up moonshining and bootlegging. No single week has passed since the initiation of this campaign that has not shown a record of a hundred arrests and the seizure of enormous quantities of illicit liquor.

Though starting the drive under existing laws Pinchot drafted a state enforcement act somewhat more drastic than the Volstead Act and submitted this to the Legisla-

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

Speaking of Important Matters

The Legislature was disposed to balk but with the prestige of a new governor with considerable patronage to bestow Pinchot insisted and the general assembly passed the act. Now the added authority of the State law behind it the bootlegger drive is going on with new impetus.

It is too early to forecast the ultimate result of Pinchot's venture. It is being watched with intense interest because it is the first time the governor of a big eastern state has set out on so intensive an enforcement program. The Pinchot campaign is not spectacular or spasmodic. Though no public official is more aware of the value of publicity to his State Police drive in any public manner. It is simply a hard business like attempt to enforce the law relentlessly but without ostentation.

There can be no question that the State Police campaign has made bootlegging more hazardous in the state. Pinchot's own way of putting it is, "we're going to make it cost too much to be a bootlegger in Pennsylvania." State Police work is especially noticeable in breaking up transportation of liquor, either over the highways or by railroad. They seem to have a genius for locating liquor en route.

But whether or not Pennsylvania is to become permanently dry is still a question which it will take months more of Governor Pinchot's campaign to decide.

Notes on Activities in Riley Hospital Campaign

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2.—More than 5,000 persons are taking an active part in the Marion county campaign to complete the county's quota of $700,000 for the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children, according to Alvin G. Ruddell, county chairman. More than $400,000 has already been pledged to the building fund by Indianapolis donors. Ministers throughout the city are serving as chairmen of the residential sections for the campaign, the business section of the city constitutes another district and factories have also been organized in a separate district.

Bloomington, Ind., May 2.—Twenty-eight of the fifty-seven Kiwanis clubs in Indiana have already subscribed approximately $100,000 to the $150,000 fund being raised by the Kiwanis clubs for the erection of one of the wings of the Riley Hospital for Children, Dr. Burton D. Meyers, district governor, has announced. The Fort Wayne Club will raise more than $5,000 toward the fund according to information just received by Dr. Meyers.

Jeffersonville, Ind., May 2.—The week of May 6 to 12 has been set for the active campaign in the ten counties of the Third district to raise funds for the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children, Charles A. Hunt of Jeffersonville, district chairman, has announced. Organization work is now being completed in every county in the district preparatory to the campaign.

BITS OF PROSPERITY FROM ALL OVER INDIANA

South Bend, Ind., May 2.—The National Storage Warehouse Company is obtaining bids for the erection of a 4-story warehouse 60 by 100 feet, which is estimated will cost about $100,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2.—A laboratory building, 100 by 135 feet, is planned by the Esterline Company, dealer in electrical supplies, which is to be erected at a cost of $75,000.

Evansville, Ind., May 2.—Furniture factories here are having a big gain in business over a year ago, and leaders in the industry, which is one of the largest here, expect an indefinite continuance of the prosperous conditions. The widespread housing developments in many cities leads back to the furniture factories, increasing the demand for household goods.

Hamil Relates Facts About Wife's Troubles

Declares She Was Wasting Away After Flu Attack, And Nerves Were on Edge. Tanlac Restored Her Fully, He States.

"The Tanlac treatment has meant so much to my wife that we will always praise it," recently said John Hamil, of 654 Third Ave., Terre Haute, Ind.

"For six weeks, she was in the hospital with influenza, and if left her terribly weak and run-down. Her appetite was gone, and she got such little nourishment from her food that she kept losing weight. Her nerves were unstrung, and she couldn't sleep restfully at all. For months she was in this condition and it was only when she got Tanlac that she finally recovered her health.

"The Tanlac treatment has done its work so thoroughly that she is eating heartily at every meal, has regained her weight and sleeps like a child at night. In fact, she is strong and healthy in every way, and we both think the world of Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

Public Approval

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stands before the public squarely on its merits as an organization of service.

In directing the affairs of this Company, the management is animated by ideals of justice, fairness and equity to employee, consumer, competitor, stockholder and the general public.

Because it insists that the rights of all should be safeguarded, the Company has prospered and has taken its place as a leader in an essential industry.

To achieve commercial success, profits are necessary. Profits can come only through liberal patronage of the buying public.

This public will not patronize an organization whose methods are unfair or unjust. Continued prosperity comes only to the Company which renders a superior service and sells honest merchandise at an honest price.

To every fair-minded observer it must be obvious that hundreds of thousands of people are patronizing the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and are doing so because they have found by experience that the service rendered by this company is reliable and that the goods it sells are uniform and dependable and that its prices are consistently fair.

Figures recently published by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that one-third of the automobile registrations are concentrated in the ten states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—yet, the price of gasoline in this territory compares favorably with that in any similar section in the world.

This low scale of prices is attributed to the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

By its ever increasing patronage the public places the stamp of its approval upon the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The acknowledged efficiency of this Company is due to the unflinching loyalty of its 27,000 employees; to the high ideals of service which the management has inaugurated and insists upon maintaining; to the unequalled facilities which this Company has provided for carrying on the business.

The loyalty of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employee is based upon the knowledge that this Company recognizes the rights of the worker to steady employment at good wages; to a liberal annuity plan; to protection against accident, and to opportunity to invest in the Company's business on favorable terms.

Because of this efficiency, recognized and approved by the public, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to pay to the stockholders a fair return on the capital invested, and to build up a sufficient reserve to enable it to expand its business to keep pace with the public need.

THE HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

WINNING OUT WITH ASTERS

The rivalry among gardeners to produce the largest and fluffiest asters is one of the most interesting features of the garden season and cultural skill is the chief factor which must be depended upon to produce the desired results.

The selection of seed will in large measure tell the size of the flowers, relatively, as some varieties naturally are larger flowered than others. As a rule the later flowering types are larger flowered than the earliest. Asters will thrive in any soil which will produce good vegetables and they will repay any extra attention to the stem rot which has given aster growers no end of trouble during the last season or two.

The root aphid or plant louse also is troublesome but if the soil is rich, has been limed or given wood ashes, the pest is not so likely to give trouble. For August and later flowering it is quite as advisable to start the seed in the open ground as in the house or frame. The plants will be more vigorous in most cases. They may be sown until well into May to continue the succession of flowers until frost.

If asters are desired with long tion in the way of fertilizing. They also need cultivation all summer to be kept in uncheeked and vigorous growth. Commercial fertilizer, particularly bone meal, hoed around them at intervals of two or three weeks, is a great help.

The addition of wood ashes or airslaked lime when the bed is prepared is coming to be considered an essential. It not only adds valuable fertilizer to the soil in the case of the ashes and sweetens the soil and releases plant food in the case of the lime, but these two act as a check stems for cutting they should be given at least a foot apart in rows two feet apart. If for massing in beds for a sheet of color nine inches to a foot each way is the closest they should be placed dependent upon the variety and its style of growth.

The succession of asters is about the following: earliest of all, July, Queen of the Market and Royal types; August, Ostrich Plume and Victoria; September, Late Branching, Crego, and King types; September and October, American Beauty type.

DETECTIVE FORCE SHOWS BIG GAIN

Horse Thief Association Has Added 100 Constables a Month During This Year in Indiana

31, NEW CHARTERS GRANTED

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2—Indiana's potential police force, authorized by law, is increasing at the rate of 100 members a month, articles of incorporation in the office of Ed Jackson, secretary of state, indicate.

Pursuant to provisions of the Horse Thief Detective association law, revised in 1907, striking growth of the association has been noted in the first three months of 1933. Thirty-one companies, with minimum membership of 10, are shown to have been incorporated in various counties of the state since Jan. 1.

Officers of the various companies, taking advantage of the elastic law, reports show, are submitting lists of their members to their respective county commissioners, who in turn are authorized to designate as persons endowed with police powers.

Commissioners have the power to turn the lists over to county officers authorizing them to appoint any or all applicants as police officers.

Attempts to make the police appointments required instead of optional failed at the last session of the legislature. G. F. Lowe, Covington, grand organizer for the National Horse Thief Detective association, present when the bill was introduced, said its objects were to "force certain minions of the law to prosecute criminal violations committed by one of their own creed."

FLAPPER HAS NO CHANCE AT THE MARRIAGE ALTAR

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2—The high school "flapper" of tender years and rounded face may be interesting to the Hoosier youth for a passing moment, but in his selection of a wife he will pass her up for the "common-sense type" who knows how to cook and sew.

This is indicated in answers to a questionnaire sent out by the Rev. Frank E. Davidson, of Indianapolis, to the young men of his congregation asking them what qualities they would place foremost in seeking a wife.

The boys voted almost unanimously for the common-sense girl.

In answering the question of what percent of the high school girls will make good wives, the boys said from ten to seventy percent, the average being about forty-two per cent.

Ninety-Eight Out of Every Hundred Women who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for ailments peculiar to their sex, have been benefited by it. What a marvelous record for any medicine to hold! Over 50,000 women replied to a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., 98 percent of whom definitely stated that they had been benefited or restored to health by this old-fashioned root and herb medicine. This is a most wonderful record for efficiency and should induce every woman who suffers from any ailment peculiar to her sex to give it a fair trial.
